عزيزي الطالب: أجب عن الأسئلة (الثاني والثالث) على دفتر الإجابة فهو المعتمد فقط لاحتساب علامتك في هذه الأسئلة.

Question Two:(20 points)

Read the following text carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

I like nothing better than curling up with a book and not having to make the effort to engage in small talk. It's not that I'm antisocial, I do get a kick out of seeing friends, but I'd be just fine stranded on a desert island. Sociability is very highly prized in our society and sometimes it seems as if everyone wants to be seen as outgoing and gregarious.

Think about all those group photos that get posted online. But research shows that being an extrovert may actually be overrated. Apparently, one of the key personality features of highly artistic people is a lack of interest in socialising. Who knew, right? It may be that artists need the time alone to reflect introspectively on their experiences, and to learn about their inner world, before transforming this into art.

Another study found that managers who were more introverted were actually highly effective when managing more vivacious employees because they were more likely to listen to what their employees were telling them. So, loners can be good team players, just not in the way you might have been expecting.

There is also plenty of evidence from the natural world that you don't have to enjoy going round in a pack to thrive, or even survive. Take the Laysan albatross, for example. When these birds fly for the first time, they head off out to sea alone where they will stay for the next three to five years.

They're not completely stand-offish though.

Eventually, something tells them that it's time to find a partner for life, even if they only actually meet up once a year. In human terms, introverts may spend a lot of time alone, but their relationships tend to be much more deep-rooted, and more enduring.

Of course, choosing to be a bit of a loner isn't the same thing at all as being lonely. We need connections with others, even if we also like our own space. Research in the UK found that loneliness and prolonged solitude can exacerbate the risk of developing serious health issues. Being with others can also improve our immune system. The world needs all different kinds of people.

1. According to research in the UK, what are two factors for developing serious health problems? (4 points)
2. The writer enjoys spending time alone with a book but society prefers to be seen with two qualities. Write them down. (2 points)
3. Lack of interest in socializing might be important for artists for two reasons. Write down these two reasons. (2 points)
4. How can introverted managers be effective when working with energetic employees? (2 points)
5. What does the underlined pronoun "They" refer to? (2 points)
6. Find a word in the text that means "exaggerated in importance." (2 points)
7. Write down the sentence that shows the writer believes society benefits from different personality types. (3 points)
8. We need connections with others, even if we also like our own space. Suggest three negative qualities you dislike most in a friend. (3 points)

Question Three: (10 points)

FREE WRITING

In your ANSWER BOOKLET, write a composition on ONE of the following:

1. In some families, children are expected to follow certain rules given by their parents very strictly, whereas in other families they are perhaps given too much freedom. Write an essay in which you will present your opinions on this subject, referring to:
 - The impact of following rules (or not) on the children themselves.
 - The impact on society as a whole.
 - Any ways in which you feel society's attitude towards children's behaviour has changed.
2. Write an article describing an art gallery or museum you have visited. Mention the place, what you saw, and why the visit was memorable.
